National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active cold front will move east across Scotland later on Sunday, bringing the potential for 20-40 mm within 12 hours, and possibly as much as 50 mm in the wettest spots. Fast-responding rivers in the warning area may rise to give minor river flooding impacts.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 18:00 on Sun, 10th May 2015 until 06:00 on Mon, 11th May 2015

A band of rain will move east across Scotland on Sunday evening and overnight, clearing soon after dawn on Monday. The rain will be heaviest across the high ground of eastern Dumfries and Galloway and the southwest of Borders, where some minor flooding is possible.

The public should be aware of difficult driving conditions, and the possibility of minor travel disruption.
